Find the missing item

This is a game of finding the missing item

Have a tray with different items from about your home.

Have your children look at the items and explain you will take some away and they have to figure out which ones have gone.

Put a cloth or small towel over the items, have your children leave the room or close their eyes.

You remove (or not) some items, depending on their age out of sight

Then allow them to look at the items and see if they can work out which ones are missing.

Hot or cold

Hide an item in a living room or family room, without your children seeing.

Tell your children there is a hidden object somewhere in the room.

As they walk around you can tell them if they are hot (near the object) or cold if they are moving away from the object.

Take turns playing the game.
